LITERATURE SURVEY

The major problem faced by the human society was water scarcity is analyzed by Bharathi and Suchitha [1]. Due to drought and depletion of underground water more borewells are drilled on the surface of the earth. Due to water scarcity, more borewells are being sunk. In many areas, the borewells are drilled and leaved as it as open without any proper covering. This abandoned borewells have become death pits and started taking many innocent lives especially small children. Now a days falling of children in borewells are increasing due to the carelessness and playful activities of the children. The holes dugged for the borewells are deep around 700 feet. In these cases, the rescue of children from such deepest borewells is quite challenging. Many times, the rescue system for children from borewells may risk the child life. Children often fall down in the bore well which have been left uncovered and get trapped. The rescue of this trapped children is not only difficult but also risky. A small delay in the rescue can cost the child his or her life. To lift the child out the narrow confines of the bore wells is also not very easy. The child who has suffered the trauma of the fall and is confined to a small area where, with a passage of time the supply of oxygen is also reduces. Robot for bore well rescue offers a solution to these kinds of situations. It is fast, economical and safe.

Palwinder et al [2], it analyzed that, in India for past few days, there have been several accidents of children falling into abandoned borewells which is left uncovered and get trapped. Abandoned borewells seems to be death pits for children. These borewells in turn have started to take many innocent lives. In these cases, normal operation of child rescue is done by using big machines with large manpower involvement. The rescue process to save the child from bore well is a very long and complicated process. It is time taking process and also risky in various ways. So, the aim of the project is to prevent the children from falling in ton the borewell. Our Paper implies a new design which has a sensor kept at top of borewell hole which helps to sense the child if he fell inside. If the system senses the child the automatic horizontal closure kept at around five feet depth closes and prevents the children from falling beneath it. It is easy to rescue the child from five feet than five hundred feet. This system also alerts by giving siren and messages to rescue team and concern officials with location. Hence this system will help to prevent children from falling in borewell and get trapped. Moreover, it has the facility to monitor the trapped child,
