Report in brief: Mr SK SUBRAMANIAM

Report in brief: Mr.SK. SUBHANI has interacted with the students of I, II&III years on platform to technical students for right exposure. Engineering has always been the go-to career for students who are into the technical and rational side of things. Every year thousands of students in India become engineers, and the trend is only growing rapidly. One of the primary reasons why students must have industry exposure is to lay a professional foundation of their core subject. It is, therefore, important to choose universities who emphasize on mentoring students into professionals. As engineering graduates only get a deeper insight of their syllabus, it is imperative for them to work on live projects. A student must learn the practical side of things and the etiquette in a professional environment. Industry exposure allows a student to apply the technical knowledge to real-life situations and problems. The industrial training is an experience where a student closely works with other professionals and follows the instruction to get insights about the operations. It finally allows students to be coached by their mentors while on industrial training. Industrial exposure allows an engineering graduate to develop several necessary skills for a successful engineering career. It allows students to understand communication across verticals and improve their understanding of effective communication.

Report in brief: MS. SOWJANYA interacted with the students of all III& IV years on voting. She started with a quotation "Like every vote counts, yours too. If you want to make a change, you should cast your vote" Every university should encourage students to exercise their invaluable vote because young learners have the power to make a significant change in shaping the country through elections. Research reveals that students who discuss current events in college or at home and engage in debates on social issues are more likely to cast their vote. Universities are places where political issues are a part of the curriculum and faculty members promote discussion of policy debates as a part of pedagogy. It becomes easier for students to realize the importance of voting. Universities should also organize programs to spread awareness about voting and encourage students to register and vote. Voting affects access to education, basic income, healthcare and childcare, tax policies, roads and transport facilities and other amenities. Make your voice heard and express your opinion through your vote.

Report in brief: Mr. CHARAN KUMAR, interested in ...

Report in brief: Mr. CHARAN KUMAR interacted with all the B.TECH students about the importance of "PROFESSIONAL NETWORKING". He said that Networking is a deliberate activity to build, reinforce and maintain relationships of trust with other people to further your goals. Professional networking is simply networking focused on professional goals. A very important part of professional networking is that it is about building relationships and trust, not just swapping business cards. For successful networking to take place a real relationship needs to be built. Professional networking has become a topic of great interest as business interests and networks become ever more international which require access to information on a level that random and close acquaintances cannot provide. The outcome from professional networking can be:
Job offers, Additional sales, Access to talent for recruitment
Offers as speaker, trainer etc for a fee or for free as further promotion
Insights into how things 'really work' inside other organizations or fields of business.
Higher social status and access to social events inside and outside the business sphere.
He also stated that "Networks deliver three unique advantages: private information, access to diverse skill sets, and power. Executives see these advantages at work every day, but might not pause to consider how their networks regulate them," The program concluded by extending Mr. CHARAN a big round of applause for sharing and guiding the students

Report in brief: Mr. Rishi Kumar and Mr. Vinay Babu spoke that Peer Interaction is an essential skill that architects require. The word "peer" in the context of this capability, refers to any individual who has a contribution to make to the success of the project, regardless of the organization, role and responsibility. In a typical workday, the architect needs to interact with a number of peers. A successful architect would need to build upon his interaction skills, as the role demands a high level of interaction with peers and other stakeholders. Mobile computers are now increasingly applied to facilitate face-to-face collaborative learning. However, the factors affecting face-to-face peer interactions are complex as they involve rich communication media.
