Report

1.Report in brief by Organizer / Coordinator / Convener:

The speaker addresses the gathering that I am delighted to be here today and to have the opportunity to share my thoughts on a very important topic: how India can accelerate its growth through encouraging greater economic participation by women.

An impressive 133 million Indians rose out of poverty between 1994 and 2012, an achievement that India and the world can be proud of. While worthy of celebration, the success could have been even more dramatic if a greater number of women could contribute to the work force.

In 2012, only 27 percent of adult Indian women had a job, or were actively looking for one, compared to 79 percent of men. In fact, almost 20 million women had dropped out of the workforce between 2005 and 2012. This is equivalent to the entire population of Sri Lanka.

Worryingly, India's rapid urbanization has not yet encouraged more women to join the labor force. Rural jobs have been decreasing and not enough rural women have been able to make the transition to working in urban areas. This makes the need for greater public safety and safe transport more significant. By any measure, the gap is particularly large and has been widening.

2. Photos:

3. Feedback from students:

They analyzed and realized the role of women in the growing the Indian economy. Students felt the responsibility of updating themselves so that the Nation grows.

4. Remarks from Resource Person:

They appreciated the students for actively participating in the events conducted and listening to knowledge shared for the progress of girl students in building Economy.

Report

1.Report in brief by Organizer / Coordinator / Convener:

International Women's Day on 8 March is a day to celebrate the social, economic and political achievements of women, reflect on progress and demand gender equality. For over a hundred years, International Women's Day has put the spotlight onto issues affecting women all over the world. Today, International Women's Day belongs to everyone who believes that women's rights are human rights.

Why do we need an International Women's Day?

Across the world, less than 15 per cent of the world's countries have a female leader. Only 24 per cent of senior managers are women and 25 per cent of companies have no female senior managers at all. Women do the lowest-paid jobs and earn less money for the same work. This difference in pay is called the gender pay gap, and for young women in many places, including Britain and America, the gap is getting worse. Women are also more likely to do most of the housework and childcare. All of these problems affect women of colour even more than they do white women.

When it comes to healthcare and safety, women also face significant inequalities. An estimated 830 women a day die in childbirth. There are some shocking statistics for female murder too. Last year the UN found that 137 women a day were killed by their partner or former partner. Worldwide, over 50 per cent of female murders are committed by the victim's partner or family. When they have access to health education and care, women are also more likely to be ignored by doctors when they say they are in pain, and serious health problems are sometimes ignored for years.

The history of Women's Day

In 1908, 15,000 women in New York went on strike because of low pay and terrible conditions in the factories where they worked. The following year, the Socialist Party of America organised a National Women's Day, and one year after that, there was a conference in Copenhagen, Denmark, about equality and women's right to vote. In Europe, the idea grew and became International Women's Day (IWD) for the first time in 1911 and the United Nations declared 8 March International Women's Day in 1975.

What happens on 8 March?

In some countries, children and men give presents, flowers or cards to their mothers, wives, sisters or other women they know. But at the heart of International Women's Day lies women's rights. Across the world, there are protests and events to demand equality. Many women wear purple, a color worn by women who campaigned for women's right to vote. Recently, marches and protests have gained force thanks to the #MeToo and #TimesUp movements against sexual harassment. There is still a lot of work to be done for gender equality. But women's movements all over the world are ready to do that work and are gaining momentum.

Report

1. Report in brief by Organizer / Coordinator / Convener:

The program is started by honorable Secretary speech where he mentioned about Equality or non-discrimination is that state where every individual gets equal opportunities and rights. Every individual of the society yearns for equal status, opportunity, and rights.

Principal addressed the gathering that students of present generation should know about change starts with you and me. One can create a tiny piece of change in the way people think. Even in the 21st century, across globe men and women do not enjoy equal privileges. Gender equality means providing equal opportunities to both men and women in political, economic, education and health aspects.

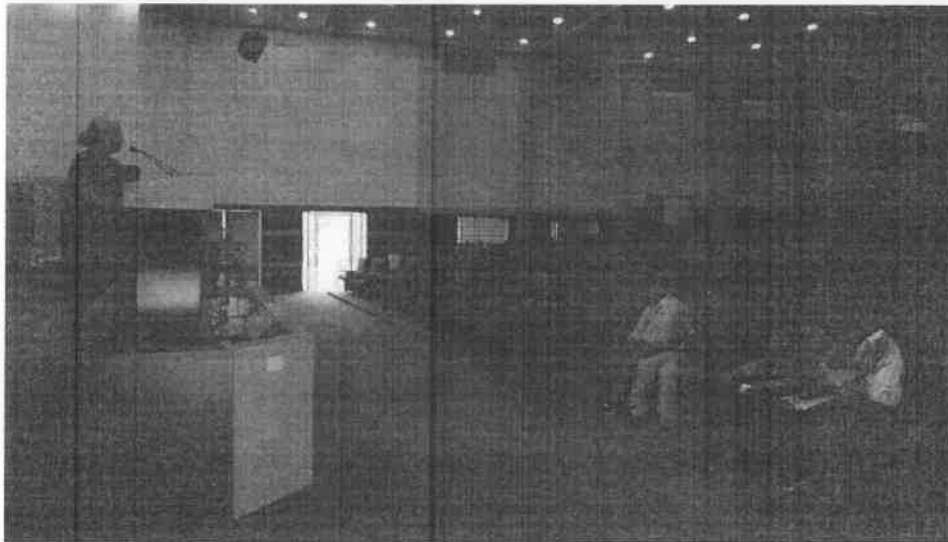

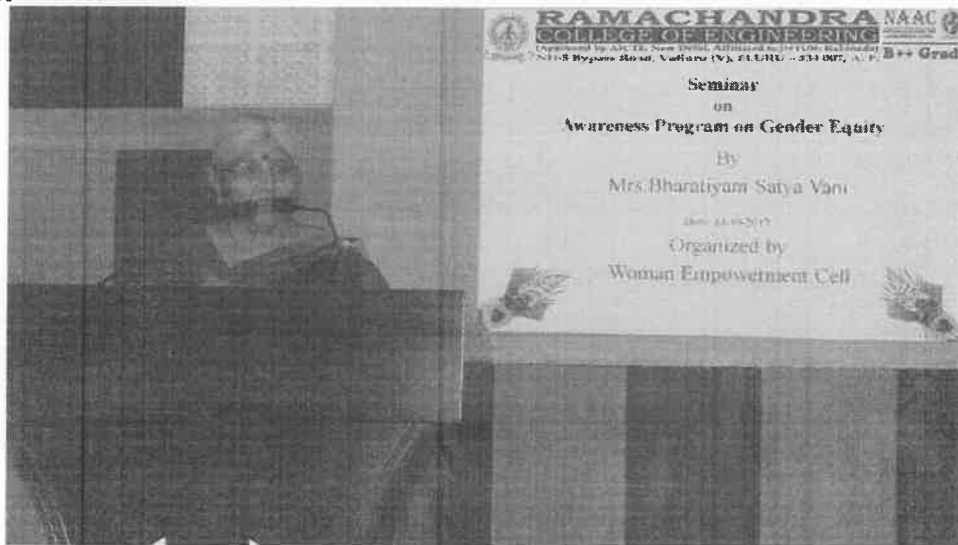

Chief Guest Mrs satya vani mentioned that It is a general observation that there exists lots of discrimination between humans. Discrimination exists because of cultural differences, geographical differences, and gender. She continued stating that inequality based on gender is a concern that is prevalent in the entire world. She said

1. If "A 14-year-old stands up to her family and says she wants to study, not marry" equality is in the house that spreads into the society.
2. If a Wife convinces the husband to sets a new tradition in his village by celebrating the birth of their daughter with much fanfare.
3. If a mother tells her son her story of sexual violence that clears the society from harassment.
4. We should Stop child marriage and sexual harassment
5. Raise aspirations of girls and their parents
6. Give proper value to 'women's work
7. Encourage women into non-traditional vocations

That tiny piece of change happens because of the choice you make at the exact moment. So, it is in the hands of future women to change the perception of self to bring the change they want. She concluded the speech by saying "Gender equality is not female fight but female right to change".

The event motivated students in such a way many girl students came forward and promised that they will create and spread the awareness in their villages and motivate as many girl children to study as well as the mothers for a better society.

The Awareness program has been organized by RCEE Women Empowerment cell at Gurukul Padasala, Eluru on 08.02.2017.

INTRODUCTION ABOUT GURUKUL PADASALA:

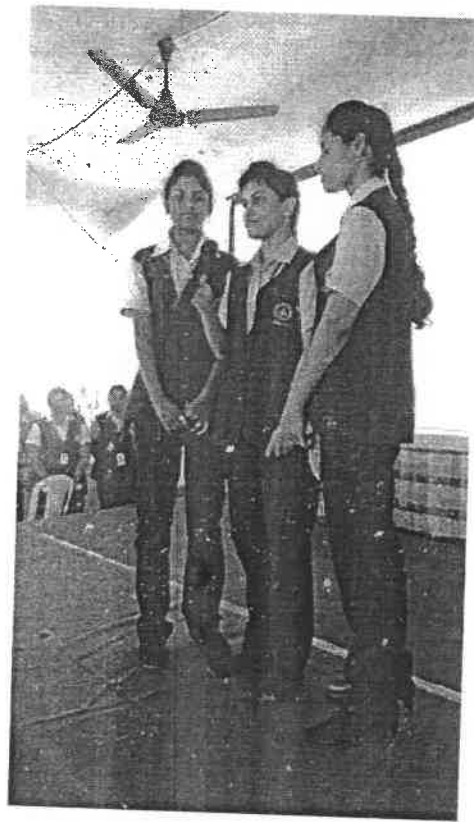

It is a residential school fully taken care of Government of Andhrapradesh. The kids not only study, but also live amongst their peers from 5th grade to 10th grade schooling. In the gurukul school at Eluru, is specially for girl students. And here from V to X, 500 girl children and in inter 120 girl students are studying.

Motto for the program:

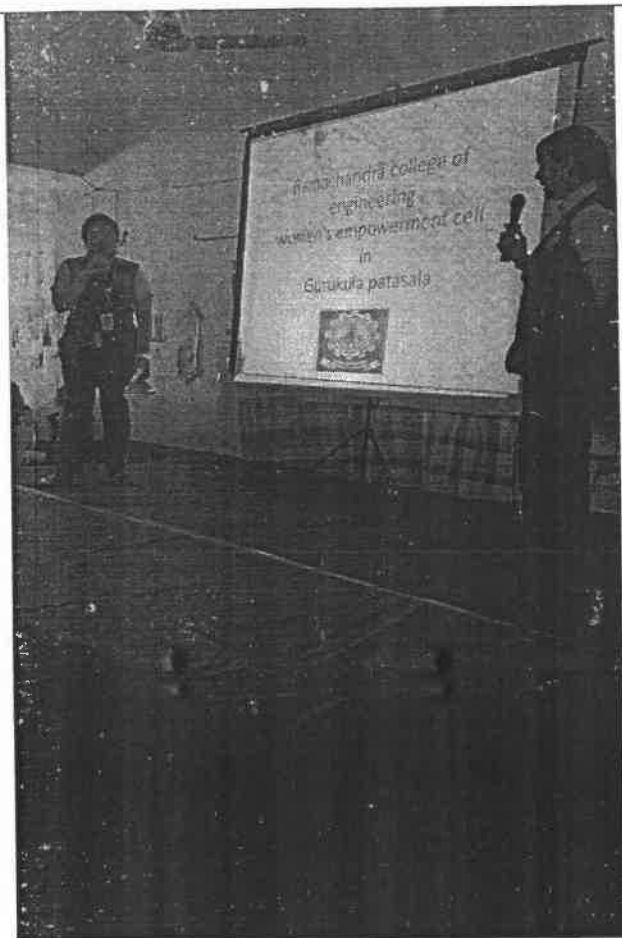

RCEE Women Empowerment cell thinks that it will be better to educate this girl students regarding continuing education, nutrition, developing self confidence, and making them aware of maintaining cleanliness etc., so, we have planned to organize the program at this school on 8/2/2017, after getting permission from our Principal sir and the School Head Mistress Srimathi.T.Umadevi.

Organizers:

From our college, The coordinator of Women Empowerment cell Prof.S.Jayalakshmi and all the department coordinators namely, Ms.J.Sridevi, Ms.Radha , Ms.Sarika , Ms.SriDurga and the 70 students from all the branches organized the program. The program events are as follows:
The program has been started with the prayer song.

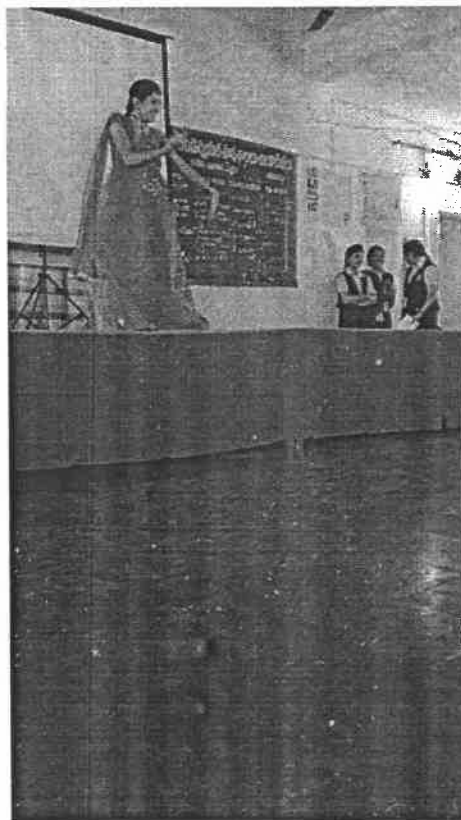

Followed by the prayer song, the Gurukul padasala Headmistress Srimathi.T.Umadevi and Our college Women Empowerment Cell coordinator Prof.S.Jayalakshmi addressed the kids. They covered the points that education is the powerful tool which can do so many wonders in the life of girls especially. And also she advised to put more concentrate on studies and try to achieve good positions in life.

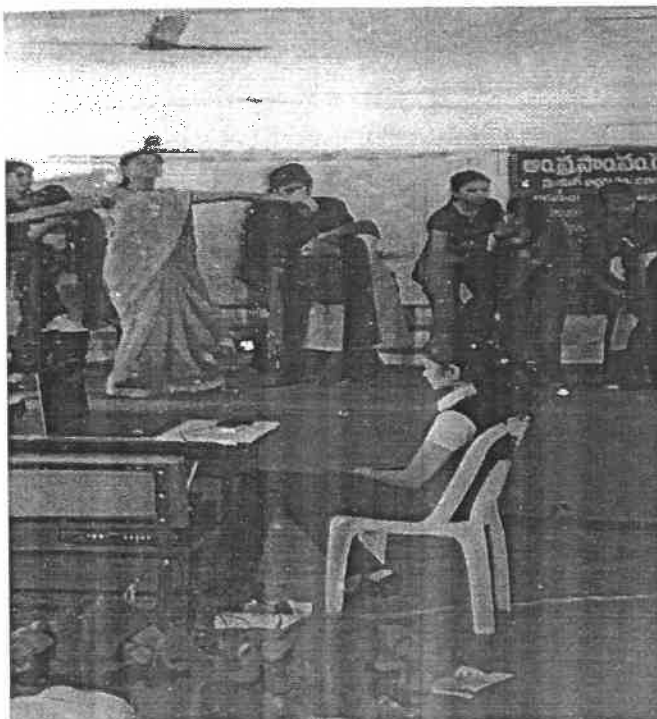

And the program starts with a classical dance.

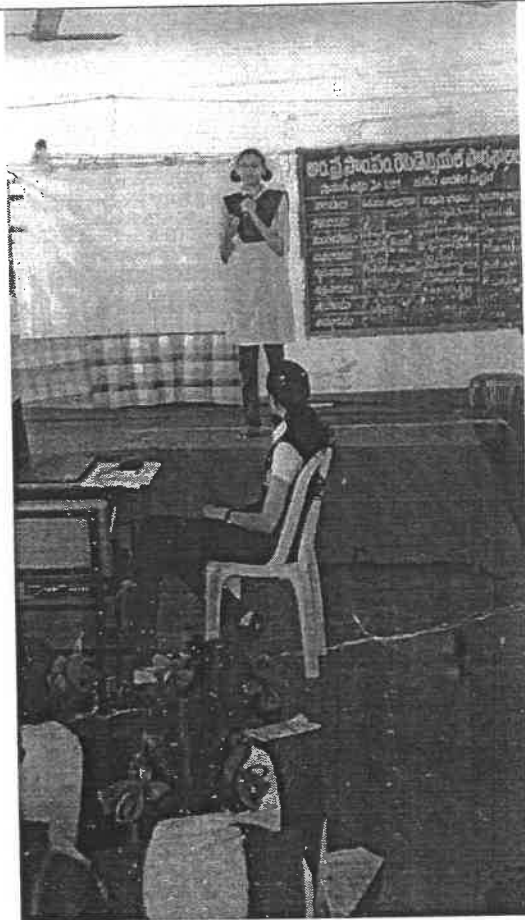

Followed by classical dance, the introduction about our college has been given to the students of gurukul padasala.

And then the skit which makes the girl students to realize the importance of self confidence and having courage has been performed. It makes all to feel emotional.

Intermediate student Ms.Sushma shared her thoughts regarding the status of women in the present society. And only by having proper education, women can improve and she has given some examples also. Her speech is so inspiring.

And the skit which shows the difference between educated woman and uneducated woman has been performed.

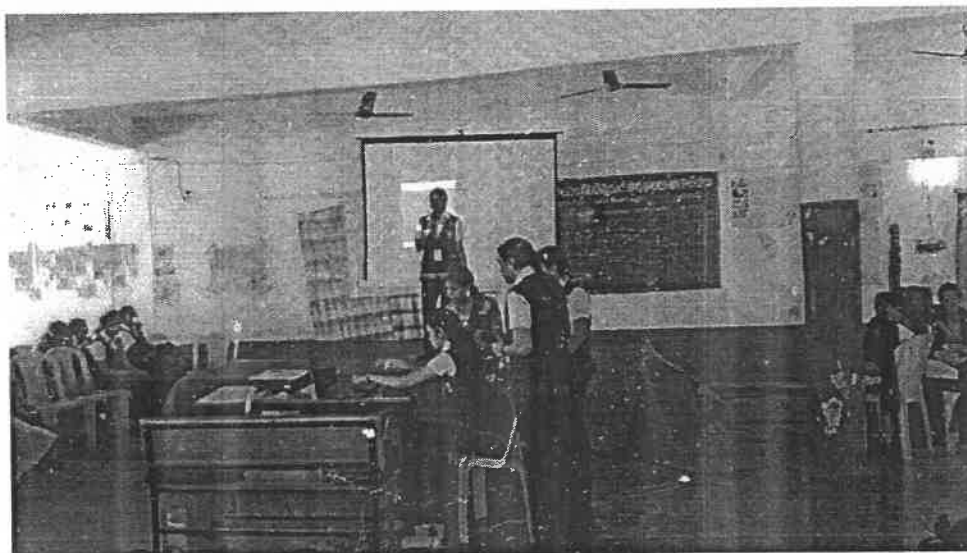

Followed by the skit, the video shows the great women achievers has been played. Really it is awesome. And it makes all to understand the will power of women.

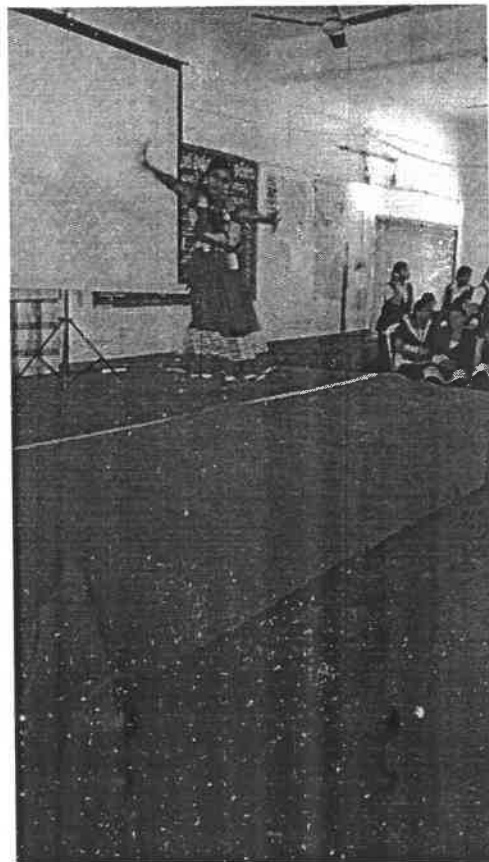

And then our students shared the valid information with the students of gurukul padasala, which will help them to protect themselves.

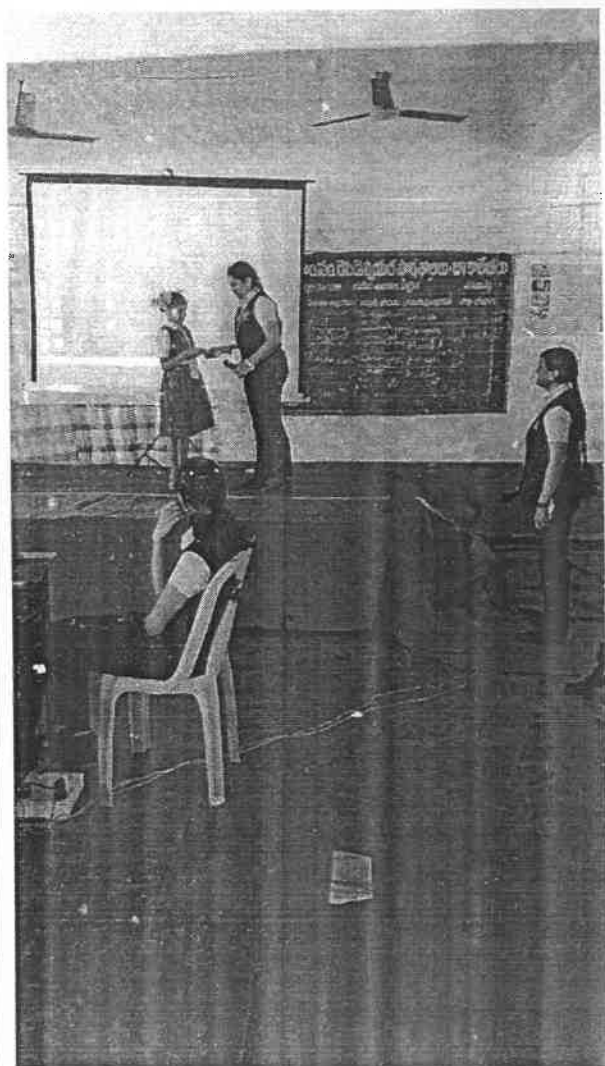

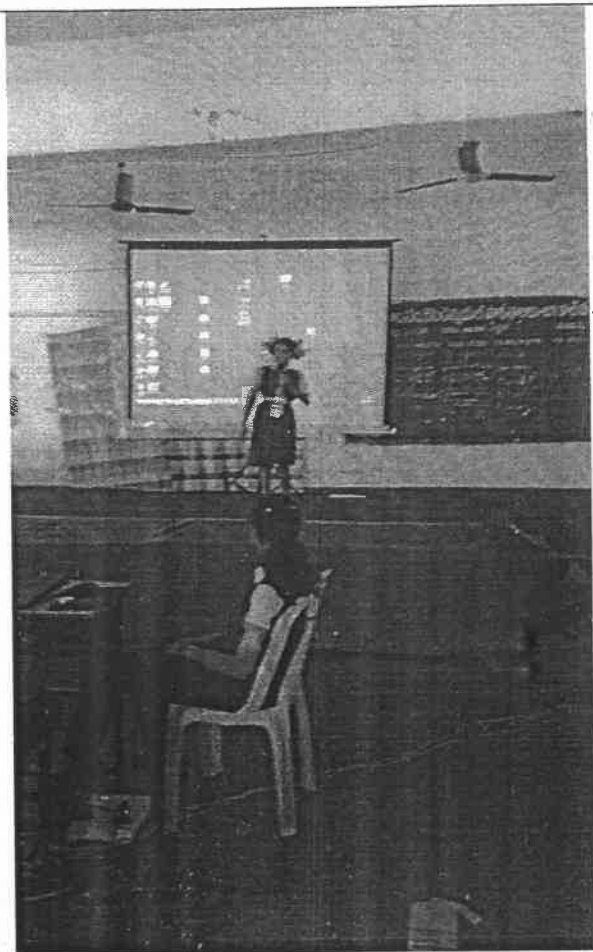

After this, the power point presentation related to safety precautions to be taken care by girl students has been explained.

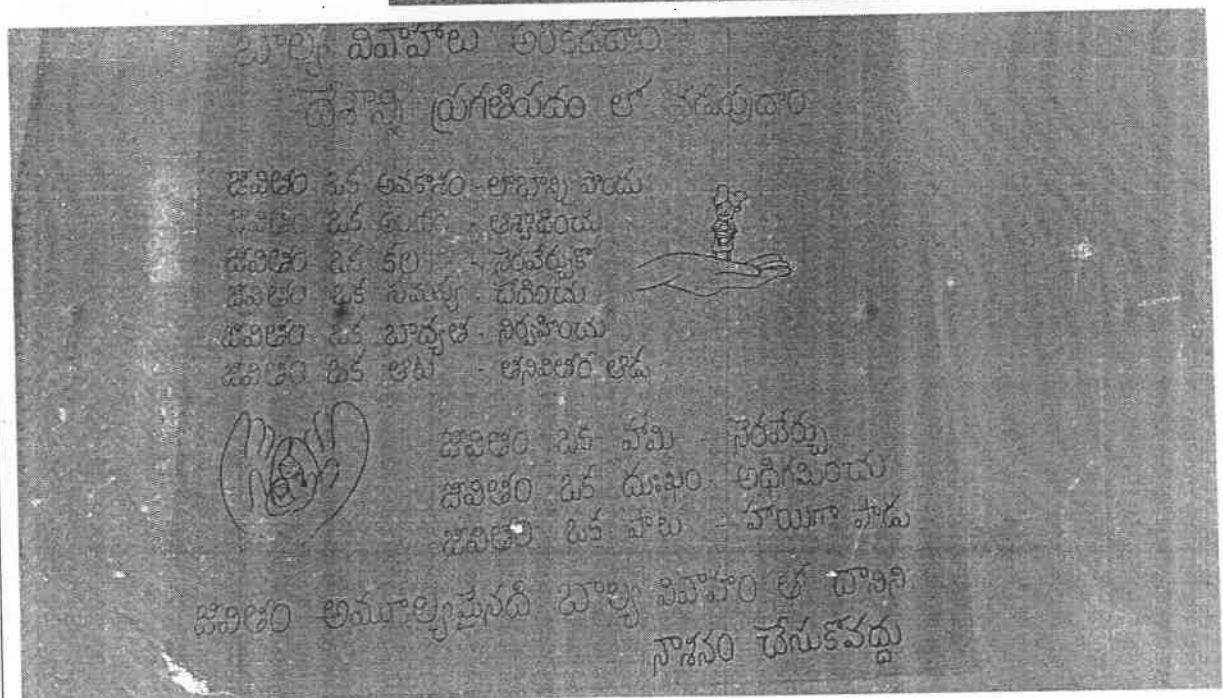

And also the power point presentation related to opportunities available for intermediate students for higher studies has been explained. Really it will be very useful for their future. And it has been nicely explained by our students. Followed by that PPT , the dance program has been performed by our student.

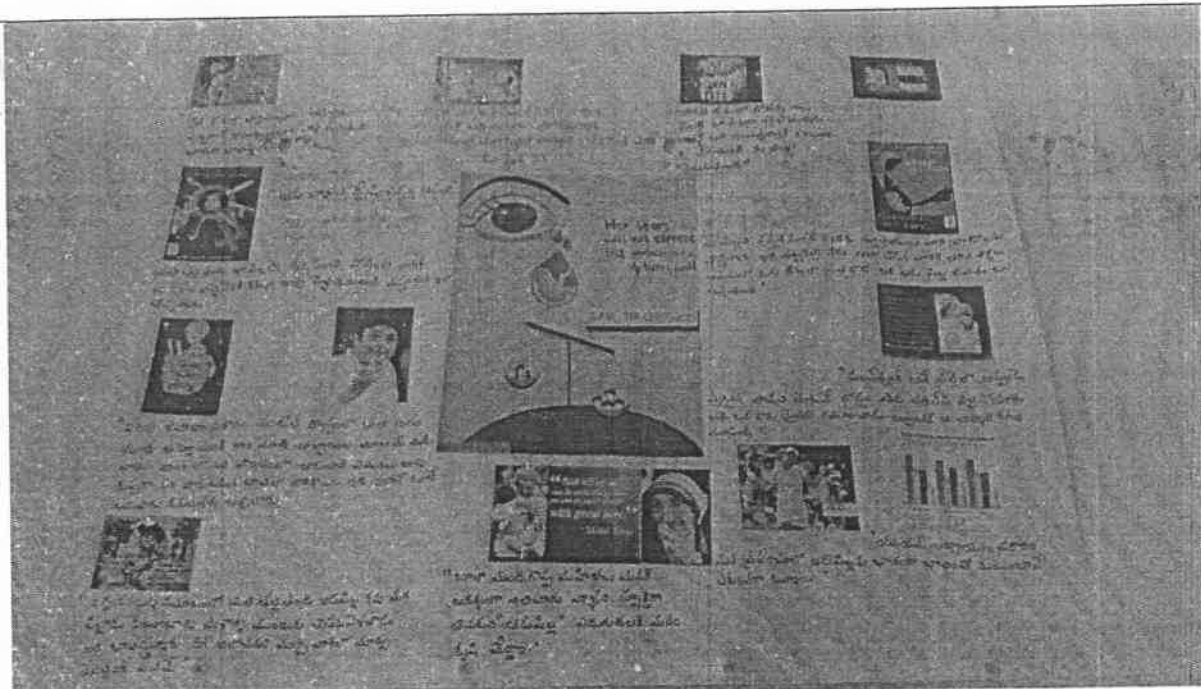

And then some interesting games has been conducted for the gurukul padasala kids and gifts have been given to them.

And also our students exhibited some posters related to women empowerment which have been prepared by them.

The program ends with National Anthem.

Feedback of Headmistress:

Gurukula Padasala Headmistress thanked RCEE Women Empowerment Cell for organizing this kind of programs for the kids. And also she requested our management to provide some guest lectures in the subjects of physics and chemistry. And also she added that this kind of programs will motivate the students to continue the education and to achieve a very good position in the society.

Feedback from the students of Gurukula padasala:

The students of gurukula padasala felt really they have understood the importance of education and surely they will continue their education. And also they become aware of some safety precautions to be followed under emergency conditions. And also they feel that this program helps them a lot to build up their self confidence. And also they requested to conduct this programs in often.

Feedback from student organizers of RCE:

Our students feel that this is a very good experience. Not only motivating our college students, involving this kind of social activities of motivating the government school kids gives them a mental satisfaction. They also added that they have been wondered by seeing the discipline followed by the school kids.

And the student organizers and the faculty members of RCEE WOMEN EMPOWERMENT CELL whole heartedly thanked the management and Principal sir for providing this wonderful opportunity.

1.Report in brief by Organizer / Coordinator / Convener:

International Women's Day is celebrated in many countries around the world. It is a day when women are recognized for their achievements without regard to divisions, whether national, ethnic, linguistic, cultural, economic or political. International Women's Day first emerged from the activities of labour movements at the turn of the twentieth century in North America and across Europe.

Since those early years, International Women's Day has assumed a new global dimension for women in developed and developing countries alike. The growing international women's movement, which has been strengthened by four global United Nations women's conferences, has helped make the commemoration a rallying point to build support for women's rights and participation in the political and economic arenas.

Report

1.Report in brief by Organizer / Coordinator / Convener:

Mr Edwin addresses addressed about how to develop self confidence in women life. Although self-confidence can mean different things to different people, in reality it simply means having faith in yourself. Confidence is, in part, a result of how we have been brought up and how we've been taught. We learn from others how to think about ourselves and how to behave - these lessons affect what we believe about ourselves and other people. Confidence is also a result of our experiences and how we've learned to react to different situations.

Self-confidence is not a static measure. Our confidence to perform roles and tasks and deal with situations can increase and decrease, and some days we may feel more confident than others. Low-confidence can be a result of many factors including: fear of the unknown, criticism, being unhappy with personal appearance (self-esteem), feeling unprepared, poor time-management, lack of knowledge and previous failures. Often when we lack confidence in ourselves it is because of what we believe others will think of us. Perhaps others will laugh at us or complain or make fun if we make a mistake. Thinking like this can prevent us from doing things we want or need to do because we believe that the consequences are too painful or embarrassing.

Over-confidence can be a problem if it makes you believe that you can do anything - even if you don't have the necessary skills, abilities and knowledge to do it well. In such situations over-confidence can lead to failure. Being overly confident also means you are more likely to come across to other people as arrogant or egotistical. People are much more likely to take pleasure in your failure if you are perceived as arrogant.

There are two sides to improving confidence. Although the ultimate aim is to feel more confident in yourself and your abilities it is also worth considering how you can appear more confident to other people. The following list has lots of ideas on how to achieve this.

- o Planning and Preparation

- Learning, Knowledge and Training
- Positive Thought
- Be Assertive
- Keep Calm
- Avoid Arrogance

Students learned how to develop self confidence in them and what should be practiced in their daily life to be confident.

Mrs K.V.Padma Priya & Kalyani Swapna judges of debate competition addresses the gathering that in under developed economies the need of entrepreneurship is been recognized as the major factor of growth in an economy. As the number of entrepreneurs increasing in an economy the growth rate is high, reduction of employment and it also helps in the economic growth of the country. Entrepreneurship serves as a catalyst of economic development of the country. It is one of the largest sections for capital accumulation. In fact economic growth is the result of the efforts taken by the entrepreneurs. Similarly entrepreneurs can dictate the economic growth by their actions and decisions. Now many have begun to realize that for achieving the goal of economic development, it is necessary to promote entrepreneurship both qualitatively and quantitatively in the country. Only active and enthusiastic entrepreneurs fully explore the potentialities of the country's available resources - labour , technology and capital.

Key Elements Of Entrepreneurship are

- Innovation
- Risk Taking
- Vision
- Organizational skills
- Women Entrepreneurs

Government of India has defined women entrepreneur is " an enterprise owned and controlled by a women having a minimum financial interest of 51% of the capital and giving at least 51% of the employment generated in the enterprise to women".

Report

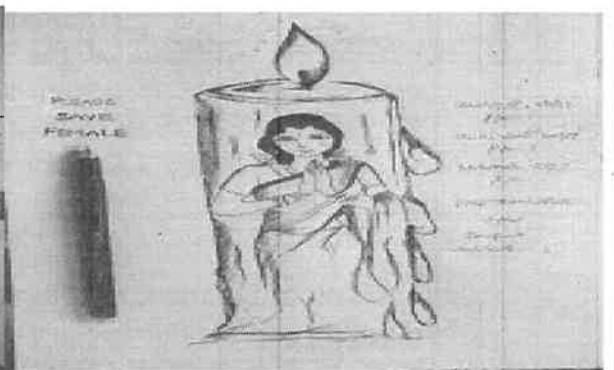

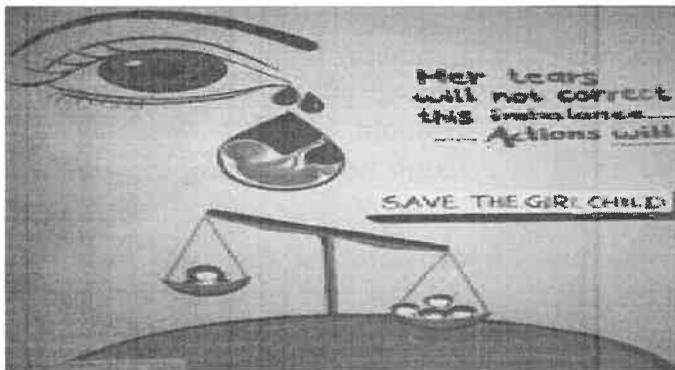

Mrs Jaya lakshmi addresses the gathering about the importance of Saving nature as follows .Today in the industrial and urban sectors, this environment comprises of well paved roads, multi-story concrete buildings and skyscrapers. Their main motive is to accommodate the increasing population and provide various luxuries to the affluent sections of the society.However, despite this movement the reliability of humans on the resources derived from nature still persists. We use air for breathing, water for drinking and other daily chores. Even the food we eat is derived from plants and animals including vegetables, milk, eggs, etc.

The need of the hour is to prevent the misuse of resources and instead use them judiciously as Mother Earth cannot sustain with this rapid utilization of resources. This is only possible through 'sustainable development'. Moreover, the solid and liquid by-products discarded as garbage by manufacturing units should be equitably managed in order to prevent pollution that leads to various diseases like cancer and gastro-intestinal diseases. This is possible only if steps are taken on the individual basis, rather than depending entirely on the government.

M.S.Radha spoke about saving the girl child as Traditions and rituals outline the existence of the Indian girl child. Amidst uproars of gender equality and law enforcement, female infants are still found dumped in trash, by the dozens, while unborn fetuses continue to be sniffed in the womb. Wrought with discrimination and prejudiced by rituals, our society has dealt the girl child a rough hand, starting even before birth, till the dark of life.

She also remembered the words of Narendra Modi Speaking on the occasion of International Day of the Girl Child in 2014, had called for the eradication of female foeticide and invited suggestions from the citizens of India via the MyGov.in portal.The Beti Bachao, Beti Padhao (BBBP) scheme was launched on 22 January 2015 by PM Narendra Modi. It aims to address the issue of the declining child sex ratio image (CSR) and is a national initiative jointly run by the Ministry of Women and Child Development, the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare and the Ministry of Human Resource Development. It initially focused multi-sector action in 100 districts throughout the country where there was a low CSR.

Mrs Jaya lakshmi addresses the gathering about the International Women's Day (March 8) is a global day celebrating the social, economic, cultural and political achievements of women. The day also marks a call to action for accelerating gender parity. No one government, NGO, charity, corporation, academic institution, women's network or media hub is solely responsible for International Women's Day. Many organizations declare an annual IWD theme that supports their specific agenda or cause, and some of these are adopted more widely with relevance than others. International Women's Day is a collective day of global celebration and a call for gender parity.

International Women's Day is all about unity, celebration, reflection, advocacy and action - whatever that looks like globally at a local level. But one thing is for sure, International Women's Day has been occurring for well over a century - and continues to grow from strength to strength. Learn about the values that guide IWD's ethics.

1.Report in brief by Organizer / Coordinator / Convener:

Mrs Hemalatha spoke about the importance of education in women life. As education opens up new worlds to women, it will enable them to make their own choices, in every way- whether it can be lifestyle, career, life-partner, sexuality, food etc. Education will teach them to discriminate between wrong and right, and make the correct choices in life. It will also teach them to be independent, make their own choices and not bow down to anyone, or society's asinine norms.

Most young, educated women of today are coming into their own being. They know about their autonomy over their lives- they no longer bow down to moronic societal diktats. They live life on their own terms. They live how they want to, they also chose their life-partners and just about everything else.

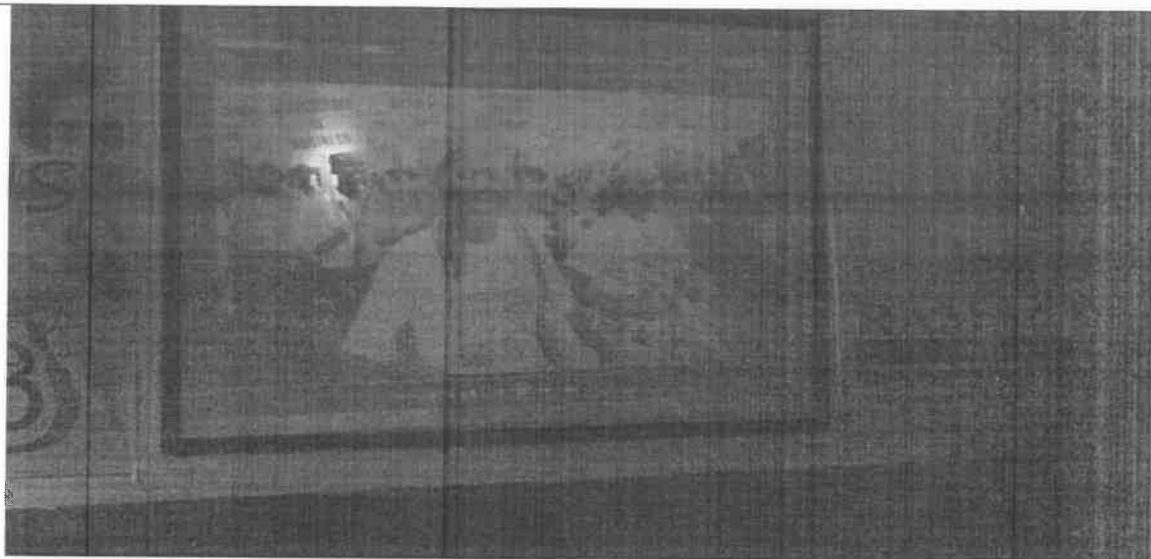

Some of the students role played about the great women who empowered themselves in many ways and also explain how education played a vital role in their life.

1.Report in brief by Organizer / Coordinator / Convener:

Mrs K.Sailaja as Senior advocate ,civil shared her experiences with the gathering as legal issues is regarded to be one of the core factors of any democratic society and the facilitator of economic growth and societal well-being. In certain developing nations like India, a girl child starts facing discrimination right from the womb and it ends in female fetus. Female child is treated inferior to male child and this is deeply engraved in the mind of the female child. This is more predominant in India as well as other lesser developed countries. A male child is considered to be blessed and his birth is celebrated as opposed to a female child where her birth is not celebrated and is considered more of a burden. The 2011 Indian census shows that there are 940 females per 1000 boys.

She Discussed about five legal issues women grapple with and where they can turn for Help

1. Divorce and child custody. Family law encompasses a wide variety of legal issues that deeply impact women, including child custody, child support, and divorce. Low-income women in family court typically rely upon legal support from local legal services offices to represent them. Reform through policy and impact litigation can protect the rights of mothers and women on a larger scale.
2. Employment. According to Marcia Angell's piece in The New York Review of Books, "women in more than token numbers have taken their place alongside men at the upper levels of government, the professions, and business, [...] earn more than half of all college degrees, and will shortly make up a majority of lawyers, doctors, and college faculty." Despite strides made toward achieving greater workplace equality, gender discriminatory barriers continue to exist at work regarding pregnancy, breastfeeding, child care, equal pay, and sexual harassment.
3. Domestic violence. At the intersection of family law and criminal law is domestic violence. One of the first issues with which a domestic violence victim needs legal assistance is getting protection from abuse orders. Many attorneys offer pro bono or reduced-fee services to assist victims with these needs. A domestic violence attorney can also assist a victim with other ancillary issues such as getting through a trial, considering mediation, and protecting children. Find Law's section on Domestic Violence Victim Resources can provide additional guidance.
4. Sexual assault. Rape, sexual assault, and sexual harassment continue to pose a great threat to women. Many advocacy organizations have resources available to assist sexual assault victims. For example, the Rape, Abuse and Incest National Network has information on hotlines, local counseling centers, international resources, and other resources.

5. Business ownership. There are now more ladies serving as general counsel at Fortune 500 companies than ever before. That's just the tip of the iceberg. Women currently boast ownership of 30 percent of all businesses. In addition, women-owned businesses receive more Small Business Association-approved loans than ever before, innovate entrepreneurial styles, generate huge revenue, and create the most jobs.

Report

1.Report in brief by Organizer / Coordinator / Convener:

Mrs T.HimaBindu addressed the gathering that Millennium Development Goals revealed the factors that a state's women and girls are strong and well, and then all other indicators follow them. When the women and girls of a state are not well, everything and everyone will suffer. This affirms that women are central agents of change. The conclusions of the recent United Nations (UN) Commission on the Status of Women (CSW) also acknowledge this relationship between sustainable development and the human rights of women and girls.

The resources of our inner worlds are unlimited. Therefore it seems reasonable, if not necessary, that along with our technical expertise and external resources, we begin developing an ethical expertise and exploring our inner resources, particularly those of women and girls. We know that inner resources include values, virtues, principles, strengths and personal powers that help us live our lives in a more effective and enjoyable way. However the range, depth and potential of these strengths are possibly more extensive than most people realize, and therefore remain underdeveloped. Like any resource, they can only be fully and effectively utilized when we know exactly what is available.

Around 125 members from all the departments participated in seminar to excel about strong women and strong world.

Report

1.Report in brief by Organizer / Coordinator / Convener:

Women empowerment cell organized women's days celebrations in RCE .Students actively participated in empowering themselves in various activities. Women empowerment coordinator addressed the gathering that

International Women's Day is celebrated in many countries around the world. It is a day when women are recognized for their achievements without regard to divisions, whether national, ethnic, linguistic, cultural, economic or political. International Women's Day first emerged from the activities of labor movements at the turn of the twentieth century in North America and across Europe.

Since those early years, International Women's Day has assumed a new global dimension for women in developed and developing countries alike. The growing international women's movement, which has been strengthened by four global United Nations women's conferences, has helped make the commemoration a rallying point to build support for women's rights and participation in the political and economic arenas.

She spoke about the First Celebrations of women day throughout the world.

International Women's Day was first celebrated on March 19 (not the later March 8), 1911. A million women and men rallied in support of women's rights on that first International Women's Day. The idea of an International Women's Day was inspired by America's National Women's Day, February 28, 1909, declared by the Socialist Party of America.

International Working Women's Day—was celebrated with rallies in Denmark, Germany, Switzerland, and Austria. Celebrations often included marches and other demonstrations.

Not even a week after the first International Women's Day, the Triangle Shirtwaist Factory Fire killed 146 people, mostly young immigrant women, in New York City. That incident inspired many changes in industrial working conditions, and the memory of those who died has been often invoked as part of International Women's Days from that point on. Especially in the early years, International Women's Day was connected with working women's rights
